

Exhibit 2

EBAY ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

This Acceptable Use Policy between eBay and Ugam Solutions Inc., Vendor, outlines the acceptable use of eBay Systems (as defined below) and forms part of the Services Agreement ("Agreement") to which it is attached. This Policy applies to Vendor and its personnel, including permitted subcontractors, in connection with the performance of Vendor's obligations under the Agreement ("you" or "Permitted Users"). Capitalized terms not otherwise defined in this Policy shall have the same meaning as defined in the Agreement.

1. You will not store or transmit eBay data on eBay Systems (defined below) that are not managed by eBay or its approved third parties.
2. You shall process eBay data provided during the Term of the Agreement only to deliver Services to eBay pursuant to the terms of the Agreement.
3. "eBay Systems" means any and all work property and resources provided to you by eBay or an eBay subsidiary or affiliate, such as office supplies, office furniture, copy machines, facsimile machines, computers, telephones, telephone access, network access, Internet access, voicemail, email, chat or instant messenger service, or any other method of communication or information storage. eBay Systems are provided to help you perform the Services, but continued access to them is conditioned on your compliance with this Policy and the Agreement.
4. Permitted Activities. You agree to use eBay Systems only to perform the Services and will follow all applicable laws, regulations and policies while doing so. Any communication through or with eBay Systems must be within the scope of the Services and consistent with eBay policies, standards, ethics and values.
5. Prohibited Activities. You must not use eBay Systems to infringe any intellectual property, publicity or privacy right of a third party; violate any law, statute, ordinance or regulation, including anti-spam laws; solicit or advertise for commercial ventures, religious or political causes, outside organizations or other non-eBay-related concerns; or send, receive, store or display communications or files, including email attachments, that are illegal, disruptive, offensive to others or harmful to morale, including without limitation any that are or might be construed as defamatory, threatening, harassing, insulting, abusive, violent, sexually explicit, pornographic, indecent, profane, vulgar, derogatory, disparaging, biased or discriminatory, or any of these things based on a person's age, sex, race, sexual orientation, disability, national origin, religion or political belief.
6. Email Using eBay Systems. If you create, send or receive email using eBay Systems: (a) You will retain only current email; (b) You shall not create, send or forward any SPAM including without limitation unsolicited email, junk mail, unrequested advertising material, chain letters, Ponzi/pyramid schemes or email that is harassing due to content, frequency or size; (c) You shall not make unauthorized use of or forge email header information, solicit email for any email address other than Y our own or with the intent to harass or to collect replies, use unsolicited email originating from within eBay's network on behalf of or to advertise any service hosted by eBay or connected via eBay's network, post the same or similar non-business-related messages to large numbers of Usenet newsgroups (newsgroup SPAM), access POP3/IMAP or other non-eBay email accounts using eBay-provided mail client or management software, or automatically forward email from an eBay email account to a non-eBay email account.

7. Passwords. You are responsible for the security of your passwords and accounts for eBay Systems. You shall not share your passwords, PINs or passphrases for eBay Systems with anyone, including another Permitted User. You shall not store the PIN or password in the Virtual Private Network (VPN) client configuration when using two-factor authentication to any eBay Systems. You shall not physically store hardware-based authenticators for remote access with the device used to connect to the eBay Systems when not in use. For clarification, passwords for eBay Systems are intended to prevent access by outside parties and other Permitted Users, but not access by eBay; eBay may access any file, voicemail or email stored on or deleted from eBay Systems.

8. Sensitive Information. You shall not transfer via any method any proprietary or confidential eBay information to internal or external parties or hosts obtained from or using eBay Systems, without the express written permission of eBay. You must encrypt all information that eBay considers vulnerable or sensitive, or that is deemed as such according to eBay's Privacy policies, when stored or transported. If You have access to eBay Systems through a laptop, you will protect such laptops in accordance with the laptop security tips provided by eBay. You shall not leave sensitive eBay information unattended or in plain sight on a desktop, in a conference room or anywhere else. You shall not leave unattended eBay information visible on a screen, but will secure such information by logging out, locking the computer, or using a password-protected screen saver.

9. Third Party Materials. You shall not redistribute or copy any content through or using the eBay Systems without the content owner's prior authorization.

10. Systems and Networks. You shall use eBay Systems and networks in accordance with applicable law at all times. You must not use eBay Systems to make unauthorized copies, distribution, usage or installation of copyrighted material not licensed to eBay or You, including but not limited to software, music and photos. You shall not: (a) export eBay technical information, technology, software or encryption software in violation of applicable export control laws; (b) effect security breaches or disrupt network communication through or using eBay Systems, including without limitation, by accessing data of which you are not an intended recipient, by logging into a server or account that you are not expressly authorized to access, by bridging of any eBay System or network (e.g., eBay intranet, etc.) with any other network, or by way of network sniffing, pinged floods, packet spoofing, denial of service, or forged routing information for malicious purposes. You shall not conduct port scanning or security scanning, or circumvent user authentication or security of any host, network or account on the eBay System. You shall not interfere with or deny service to any permitted user of the eBay Systems, or use any program, script, command or message of any kind with the intent to interfere with or disable a permitted user's terminal session via any means. You shall not intentionally create, use or store any viruses, Trojan horses, worms, time bombs, cancelbots or other computer programming routines on eBay Systems that are intended to damage, detrimentally interfere with, surreptitiously intercept or expropriate any system, data or personal information. You shall not use a host connected to an eBay System or eBay network that is not continually executing approved virus-scanning software with a current virus database. You shall not implement or connect to any eBay System or eBay network via unauthorized wireless networks, equipment or devices, as designated by eBay, and you shall not create or use unauthorized access to eBay Systems or data, including without limitation, via modems or wireless devices. You shall not congest the eBay System or eBay network or interfere with the work of eBay, including by transmitting or posting messages that are intended or are likely to result in the loss of the eBay's work product or eBay Systems. You shall not use the eBay Systems or eBay network to gain unauthorized access to third party resources.

11. No Expectation of Privacy. eBay Systems are provided to You for the performance of Services under the Agreement only and, as between you and eBay, the eBay Systems are eBay's property. Accordingly, eBay may access, review, monitor, copy, block and delete your communications on eBay Systems for business reasons, and may disclose your communications to third parties, if appropriate. You should not expect privacy in voicemail, email or any other communications made via eBay Systems. All eBay property, including disks and storage media, desks, filing cabinets or other work areas, and the articles stored therein, is subject to inspection by eBay at any time with or without notice or consent.

12. Return of eBay Property. You are responsible for all eBay property, materials and documents issued to you or in your possession or control, if any. You shall secure eBay equipment provided to you against removal or theft. You will report to the sponsoring eBay point of contact, or his or her designee, within twenty-four (24) hours in the event a hardware- or software-based authenticator is lost, stolen, or otherwise compromised. You must report any loss or theft of eBay equipment provided to you to the eBay Information Security Office at (408) 967-2441, with notification also sent to DL-security-report@ebay.com. You must identify the information and classification of the information contained on the computer/computer equipment. Upon termination of the Agreement or applicable project assignment, or immediately on eBay's request, you must return to eBay all eBay property, materials and documents including copies thereof in your possession or control, including without limitation: eBay files, notes, memoranda, correspondence, lists, drawings, records, plans and forecasts, financial information, personnel information, customer and customer prospect information, sales and marketing information, product development and pricing information, specifications, computer-recorded information, tangible property, credit cards, entry cards, ID badges and keys, and any material of any kind that contains or embodies any proprietary or confidential material of eBay or any third party. eBay may take all actions necessary to recover and protect its property.

(remainder of page intentionally left blank)

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Kim a Naran", with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.